HONGKONG, MONDAY, SEPT. 20, 1869.

E are so socustomed to movements, in the East which, under the designations of "changes," progress, ko. go to make 5th of August, and after that had a fresh up the history of the decade, that when any specially notable event takes place we are apt to overlook its importance. We very much doubt whether if the long-talked of experimental railway is the Southern part of the China sea as far ever completed, it will furnish more food for foreign comment than an impassive of August, being then eighty-seven and a "Ah! they've begun at last." We have got so into the habit of considering that every forward movement is part of a pre-ordained plan, necessarily following foreign intercourse with China, that we are in danger of not realizing the vast change in its public opinion which must have been previously effected. By the Shanghai papers just to hand we read that Mr Porter, of the Imperial Maritime Customs, having at his own expense imported two steam engines, working pumps and agricultural implements into Peking, a resident Pekingese has purchased one of the two which has been satisfactorily exhibited, to a large circle of honestly admiring natives.

Let us pause for a moment and compare the Peking of 1859 with that of 1869. Closed at the former date to the foreign ministers, and in the hands of a party whose cry was death to foreigners, less than ten years have elapsed to find such inventions as gas, steam, and electri city not merely exhibited, but availed of or complacently regarded as future aids of material welfare! The wildest dreams of the "Old Factory" residents scarcely dared to reach such a height. With our many indictments against the Chinese, we cannot but acknowledge that, slow as is their progress, an appreciable step in advance has been made since the days when Yah defied our power, or, the native gunners of the Taku forts beat off, as they fondly hoped, the strongest force we could bring against them. As theroughly opposed to the anti-progressive political character of the nation, we are the more struck with the change in public opinion which must have taken place at Peking to permit a native, however influential, to openly exhibit a machine which almost may be said to represent in Chinese eyes the secret of foreign power. For vast as are the real achievements of steam, it is invested with even more wonderful attributes in a Chinaman's imagination. He is told that our cloth, our paper, and half the articles of common use, are produced by its aid, and utterly unable to comprehend the mere use of power, his mind endues the magic engine with a sort of supernatural intelligence.

Though events have long been paving the way for breaking down the barriers which have hitherto so jealously excluded even the sight of foreign machinery from the Capital, it is no small thing to have been the individual who has chosen the time and means to bring this alteration in public feeling to a practical result, and we may fitly conclude in the words of the Tientain correspondent of the North China Daily News - Mr Porter deserves great praise for having introduced these things, at his own risk and expense; and it is pleasant also to see that the Chinese government have made no objection to their introduction, even into Peking. May we be able to look upon the introduction of steam machinery into the Capital, in so peaceful a manner, as the dawn of a better day for Ohina."

A Chinese was placed at the bar charged with having stolen a quantity of vegetables from a garden in Lap Sap Wan. The complainant and his witness (Hakkas) were highly amused and not a little puzzled at the foreign form of oath or declaration and after with very much difficulty he had been induced to repeat the declaration, he interlarded it with grins, broad laughter, and running dominentary, so as to dearly prove that he had a very moderate realization of its importance. The result of the evidence of both complainant and witness was much better than the opening declaration presaged. It was clearly proved that prisoner was caught about one o'clock this morning with a large basket of vegetables in his possession, and it was placed beyond readily detected by the soul felt hugh which doubt that he was the man who often made springs up like the sea fouth from a gay raids upon the gardens about that district. While the interest opinion (if that is of much account in the of the new statute lies yet in the future i case) has I think been setting against the may be convenient to enumerate the changes it will introduce into the ecolesias neither many nor conspicuous. For the the Irish Church will be substantially unaltered. The parliamentary union between it and the Church of England will continue to subsist. ecclesiastical corporations wil retain their accustomed status and possessions, the ecologiustical courts, will exercise their accustomed jurisdiction, and the Irish accepted as sufficient proof of this; but bishops will take their accustomed turns in the House of Lorks. There are, howed as an importial umpire. Third ly, the clergy and laity of the Irish Church will enjoy during the same interval freedom of synodical action. They may meet in synod by such representatives as they shall appoint, and they may frame regulations for the general management of the Church, and for the future representation of the members.

The intercalary period expires on the lat of January, 1871. At that date the scole-sisstical revolution will be complete. The union with the Church of England will come to an end, the entire mass of Church listed, and Irish bishops will be seen no day forward the Irish Church will be rele religious association, possessed of absolute for me!" liberty to define its own doctrines, to manage its own affairs, and to spend its own money, Supposing it to take no immediate steps to constitute a representative body for itself, the Ecclesiastical law, and OREAT demonstration in isvour of a union or alliance between the Scandinavian States of Denmark, Sweden, and Norway was held near Copenhagen a few days ago. Tan thousand Swedes, Danes, and Norwerians assembled. This great meeting was in every sense a representative one. There was a delegate from the extreme west of Jutland, another from the far north of Norway, and three Danish patriots came from Schleswig. Speeches were delivered n all three languages. The necessity of a political union between the Scandinavian States was jurged as the only means of insuring them from aggressions of their powerful neighbours, and the expediency of developing their paval and military forces by such representatives as was strongly insisted on. Thy Scandingvians, like the more southern people are beginning to learn that unity is strength. Sweden has suffered from the encroschments Rusia, and Denmark from the rise of the Prussian monarchy. BE "TREATY PURTS OF CHINA AND "NOTER AND

Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the aubject by the re ceipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowis well printed on good paper, and in size information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customer of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japaneses It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently successful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one and wishing it every success, we commend it to the attention and support (From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868. We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of "Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can me that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East, Its interest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddbiam and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better

(From the " London Examiner," May

16, 1868.) This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports China and Japan " is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macio. It has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys; and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds considerably enhance its value. A state
